

MRS. WORRY. WHEN CAN A WOMAN FEEL SECURE? &

SPORT Snap-Shots

— MORRIS MILLER —

The Recruit.
No thousands rose to cheer him as he trotted out to bat. He didn't rub his hands with dirt, he didn't do his hat. Nor did the stands echo then, nor did a rooster root. Save yells of "Where'd they grab the rube?" "Who signed the raw recruit?"

His name it wasn't Casey and he didn't have a "rube" either. He did the distance to the plate with timid, faltering step. Two outs—fourth inning—bases packed—four runs would cop the game. "Who wished this buster on us?" "What a shame, oh, what a shame?"

The bard has sung of Casey who could surely pound the pill. Who'd tear the leather off the ball and make ten thousand thrills. He got a great ovation when he proudly marched to bat. In a pinch he fanned the air—three rotten ones at that! This little unknown buster—shucks—why hold you in suspense. He slammed the ball far beyond the distant outfield fence. He didn't rub his hands with dirt, he didn't do his hat. He only cleaned the bases—which was more than Casey did.

Matty's Control.
Now they've figured it out that Matty, the mighty Matty, would cop more games if he didn't have such great control. Matty's control, according to eastern scribes, is his one besetting sin. His control is so good that he's losing games by it. Sounds rather foolish at first thought, but look over a batter walks to the considerable temerity and no fears of getting kicked on the bean by a speedy one. He isn't afraid of stopping a fast wide one with his appendage. No chance of acquiring a malformation on his frontal bone. As a

CHICAGO MAN HIGH GUN AT BIG SHOOT OF THE GUN CLUB

Largest Number of Entries of Any Match in State—Good Scores Made.

H. V. Jackson, of Chicago, was high gun at the tournament held by the Janesville Gun club at their grounds on Washington street yesterday with a score of 144 out of a possible 150. George Roll, also of Chicago, was second, being one behind Jackson. Roll had been leading the field up to the ninth event with Jackson only one behind. With victory in sight Roll fell down in the last two events and failed on the last shot of the ninth event and lost first position when he missed two in the tenth event.

Jackson, started poorly only breaking 13 in the first event and then fourteen for the next four. After this his score was perfect and Roll's missing two in the tenth event won him the position of high gun.

H. Dunnell of Blue Island, Illinois, received third prize money together with F. G. Fuller of Mukwonago, Wisconsin, present champion target shot of Wisconsin with eight down.

In the professional class, no sensational scores were made. E. S. Graham, holder of a record of 142 straight broke 130 out of 150 targets. W. D. Stannard was second, in this class, breaking 137 birds.

Yesterday's shoot was the best that the local club has ever held as they had the largest number of entries and the gathering of such noted target shooters caused keen competition, making the scores exceedingly high. 10,103 targets were shot during the tournament and the sixty-seven gunners broke 9,000 of them.

The following are the scores made: A. Vance, 137; G. W. Sperbeck, 138; F. G. Fuller, 142; P. Cusick, 124; Del Miller, 138; J. F. Wolf, 137; J. S. Young, 138; George Roll, 143; H. V. Jackson, 144; J. Bates, 138; H. Dunnell, 142; L. S. Dice, 128; C. J. Jelyman, 100; N. Miller, 123; C. E. Parkins, 122; L. L. Dickerson, 123; E. P. Drake, 130; H. McNamara, 120; W. S. L. L. 132; W. E. Frey, 135; H. Heimer, 126; W. A. Dodd, 102; W. H. Smith, 91; W. Winch, 103; W. L. Paul, 85; D. L. Bottrich, 124; A. Rich, 117; C. E. Snyder, 129; J. Van Ect, 130; C. C. Angolia, 135; S. S. Price, 117; H. C. George, 120; C. J. Laverger, 112; P. Sullivan, 127; J. J. Kelly, 131; A. J. Wagner, 126; C. Thompson, 30; C. Murdoch, 110; G. Ingersoll, 122; A. Flea, 139; Wm. Reesoot, D. W. Johnson, 86; H. Drews, 136; H. Gray, 131; C. Starr, 122; H. J. Casey, 114; H. Thomeiz, 120; George Sholes, quit in sixth event; W. Stewart quit in sixth event; F. W. Matson, 137; J. Keuchee, 120; G. W. Cop Dodge, 127; W. P. Shumway, 133; A. Vere, started at sixth event; B. Docher, 137; E. H. Long, 123; E. Billmeyer, 133; E. P. McKown, 123; E. Billmeyer, 123.

A Chance for a Bright Dog.

Frieda, the dog you cure little dogs, would like to sell? A trained sardine hound or a tame cockroach that can do tricks? Ship it down to Frank Chance, care of the Yanks. If you have, and he'll reward you handsomely. Chance is looking for a mascot. A nice, pleasant, well behaved, lucky mascot. The Yanks have won just one game on the home grounds since the season began and something will have to be done. The great P. L. is getting nervous. Chance will offer a very fat piece of change for a real boocoo chaser. Anything to slip one over on the jinx.

BASEBALL CHATTER.

Catcher Ed. Sweeney, of the Yankees, has been off his stride of late and in consequence is being panned by the New York fans.

Harry Lumley, the old fence-busting gardener of the Brooklyn Superbas, has signed with the Scranton team, of the New York State League.

Evidently Manager Joe Tinker didn't make a mistake when he sold Leon Ames from the Giants. Leon is pitching winning ball for the Reds.

Nearly all the big league clubs in the country are trying to land Pitcher "Rube" Schauer, the star singer of the Superior Northern League team.

The New York Americans have offered $5,000 for the immediate release of Frank Hosp, shortstop of the "Feds" team of the Pacific Coast League.

Harry Lord has recovered from an injury to his arms, which put him out of the way for several days, and is now putting up a swell game for the White Sox.

The Boston Red Sox have defeated the Yankees in eighteen straight games in New York. The Yankees didn't make a mistake when they sold Leon Ames from the Giants. Leon is pitching winning ball for the Reds.

H. Zimmerman, of the Cubs, has a rival in the way of being the "only guy of the Bronx." Dick Rudolph, of the Harlem River.

Names taken from the lineup of the Chicago Federal League team, as printed in a Chicago newspaper: O'Leary, Stan; K'nagh, K'ing, G'rich, M. Donahue, G'ive.

Pitcher Tom Seaton, of the Phillies, has his turkey-trotting ball down to perfection this season. Tom had rolled up seven straight victories when the game was called on him for a game.

Chapman, who stands eighth, is the only Cleveland Nap among the dozen leading basestealers in the American League. Good pitching and an array of the big sluggers are keeping the Naps up in the chase.

Walizer, Connors, Holcomb, Kelley, and Devine, of the St. Anselm College (Manchester, N. H.) baseball nine, have quit the college team and are in the professional ranks. All five players have landed with minor league teams.

Not much doubt about the Athletics having the Red Sox and Washington "Rube" Schauer. The series with the Red Sox stands 5 to 1 in favor of the Athletics, while the Mackmen have copped 7 of the 9 games played with Washington.

The major league clubs have started to gather the 1913 crop of minor league wonders. Detroit was one of the first of the big league clubs to get

MILTON NOW CLAIMS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Have Challenged Beloit College Nine to Game Next Tuesday to Decide Honors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton, June 10.—In a very exciting and well played game, Milton college defeated Northwestern college by the score of 6 to 3. The Milton boys were in the pink of condition and from the first it was evident to all that they had their rivals outclassed in every department. Milton was the first to score, scoring two runs in the first and never allowed the Northwestern boys to even up the score. At times the game was very exciting and some of a pessimistic temperament feared that Milton would get the worst of it after all. But the brown and gold were sure of their playing and knew from the start that the Mackmen was at their mercy. G. Crandall, who has been laid up with the grippe for some time, came back with redoubled vigor and pitched a wonderful game. The support was good, as well as the strategy on bases.

Beloit, the only other claimant to the championship, has been challenged to a game on here on Tuesday, June 17. The lineup: Milton—Bingham, 2b; Randolph, 1b; Burdick, ss; G. Crandall, p; West, 1b; P. Crandall, cf; Sorenson, c; Richardson, 3b; G. White, rf.

Northwestern—Rosin, c; Wietzke, 2b; O. Kehrberg, 1b; Mantel, ss; Gordell, 3b; A. Kehrberg, cf; Medowald, cf; Kolander, lf; Lueckel, p.

Score by innings:
Milton..... 2 0 0 2 0 0 2 x—6
Northwestern..... 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 x—3
Two base hit, Gordell, struck out, by Crandall, 9; by Lueckel, 8; bases on balls, off Crandall, 1; muffed fly balls, White, Burdick.

Umpire—Whitford.

CANADA-SOUTH AFRICA TENNIS PLAYERS MEET

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, June 11.—The selected tennis players representing Canada and South Africa will meet on the Queen's Club courts here tomorrow for the first round in the preliminary matches for the Davis Cup competition. The meeting of the Canadian and South Africa teams is attracting much attention among the lovers of the sport as their meeting will be the only one of the first round competitions to take place in England. The matches between the United States and Australia was held in New York last week and that between France and Germany took place at Wiesbaden at the same time. The survivors of these preliminary matches are to meet in the final trials at Wimbledon about the middle of next month and at the end of the month the winners of the finals will contest with Great Britain for the cup.

Welsh to Box in Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., June 11.—Vancouver ring followers are to have an opportunity to see Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion, in action tomorrow night. Ray Campbell is the fighter selected to meet him before one of the local clubs. The two are slated to mix it up for fifteen rounds.

SHAKEUP IN AMERICAN POLO TEAM HAS NO EFFECT IN BETTING

British polo team and an American team in practice. British have black jackets.

The substitution, as announced a few days ago, of an almost entirely new quartet of polo players for the defense of the international cup meet June 10-14, has had no effect on the betting. The American team, in which the shakeup occurred, still is the favorite.

Miller's HIGH LIFE

The Champagne of Bottled Beer

HIGH LIFE is the refined product of a modern brewing plant, the processes and methods of which have been unsuccessfully imitated by competitors. The quality purity and taste of HIGH LIFE have not been duplicated. Its individuality is an achievement, the result of fifty years of development and progress.

Always uniform in quality because the highest grade materials are used and properly proportioned—the brew is sufficiently aged—the bottling is clean and sanitary.

When you order beer insisted on HIGH LIFE and you will get the "finest tasting beer ever produced." On sale at leading Buffets, Dining Cars and Steamship lines.

We use light bottles exclusively for this high grade beer—common beers in dark bottles

THE BROWN BOTTLE BUBBLE

The brown bottle "bubble" has foundered on the rocks of public opinion and the reason is so simple that it hardly needs explanation. Consumers of beer have listened patiently to the "stunk" whine of the brown bottle school, which is in direct contradiction to the actual experience of regular beer users. People have enjoyed their beer from light bottles for more than a score of years—they have relished it and pronounced it O. K. The statement that beer in light bottles is not palatable or wholesome is absurd and not founded on fact. This is conclusively proven by the daily experience of beer users.

The reaction has caused consumers to study the question with the result that it is now quite generally understood that a common beer, which lacks the stability of higher grade beer, is necessarily put up in brown bottles. The greatest authority on brewing in America has opened the eyes of beer consumers on this question. Their letter follows—read every line of it:

Chicago, November 12, 1912.

To our Clients:—

Please take note that we have recently given our opinion to our clients as to the relative merits of the white and the brown bottle for beer.

Referring to your recent request for our opinion on the relative merits of the white and the brown bottle for beer, we wish to say that the ONLY advantage of the brown bottle is its ability to protect the beer from light. BEER IS NOT OF SUCH QUALITY AS TO BE IM- MUNE.

Where, however, bottle beers have attained a HIGH DEGREE OF STABILITY, so that they are practically immune to such influences as prolonged chilling and prolonged storage at summer temperatures, they also become less sensitive to the influence of light, so that with the usual precautions no bad effect need be feared.

FOR SUCH BEERS THE LIGHT BOTTLE IS PREFERABLE EMPLOYED because it can be more readily inspected because the bottles through cleanliness, a glance whether the package reveals any of the consumer as to color, meet the requirements of the consumer as to clarity and freedom from sedimentation.

Yours very truly,

The Minnesota supreme court decision, which has long been hanging fire, now gives the right of any state, authority to fix rates, and the roads doing business in Minnesota face a claim of three million dollars for overcharges which they are likely to be obliged to pay. From the present outlook the experience of 1893, with seventy-three American roads in the hands of receivers, is liable to be repeated. Great reform.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

LOSING LIFE TO FIND IT.

We often hear of the new politics, of progressivism, opposition to boss rule, curbing of monopoly, initiative, referendum and recall, postal savings banks, parcel post, land for the people instead of private grabbers, exposure of the money trust, issue of currency as a government function, taking big business out of politics and kindred reforms as something new.

What short memories we have! Twenty years ago the People's party advocated all these things and at one time polled nearly 2,000,000 votes in their support.

The People's party died, but the principles lived on. In due time they were so powerful that they revolutionized one of the old parties and split the other wide open.

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again. The eternal years of God are hers. But Error wounded with a mortal pain. And dies among his worshippers.

The People's party fused with the Democrats in order that its ideas might have wider acceptance. It died that its principles might live.

Whoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

Men sneered at what they called populism, some because they did not understand it, some because it was new, some because its ideas would destroy their special privileges and some because they had heard others sneer.

Many of the Alps that sneered are dust; others belonged to men who have been driven or are now being driven from public life. Multitudes have ceased to sneer and now praise. Through it all the truths have gone on winning the nation.

Is there anything more inspiring than the power of an ideal?

Is there any force greater than that of a right thought?

Time proves all things. Time has proved these principles, and after twenty years the scales are falling from men's eyes and they are seeing both these and other things in a new light.

We who fought for these ideas in the old days gained nothing in return but opprobrium and hard knocks.

Yet some of us have lived to see these brain children of ours hurl the mighty from their seats and capture the conscience of a nation.

Beside that any mere personal triumph would be puny and trifling.

Politically speaking, we lost our lives for truth's sake and have found them again.

And some of us are fairly young and vigorous, thank you, and expect to live until these and other good things are accepted of all men.

Pay.

When you use up all the assets in the bank account of life, you've got to pay.

When you use up all your energies in keeping up the strife, you've got to pay.

When you burn the candle at both ends, and bat around at night, when you gaily tread the primrose path and follow beauty's bright, when you go the limit, son, no matter where you fly your kite, you've got to pay.

For the law of compensation never has been beaten yet. You've got to pay. And for every feeling joy or hollow pleasure that you get, you've got to pay. Old destiny is accurate though roisters may scoff. She is a great collector from the gay and sportive toff. When your account is due, my son, you cannot stand her off. You've got to pay.

This, That and The Other.

A two-wheeled automobile would do away with exactly half of the trouble. A farmer must look just like a common ordinary ultimate customer when he hasn't got his collar on and needs a shave.

A woman will spend two hours arranging her hair and then put on a hat that covers it all up.

The trouble in this country is that there are too many old maids writing the "Advice to Mothers" columns.

When Alex. Schram was chief of police of Cheboygan some years ago this happened to be a murder in Detroit. The Detroit police suspected that the murderer had gone north with a railroad gang that was working near Cheboygan and supplied the Cheboygan chief with six photographs of the murderer taken in different poses. A few days later they telegraphed Schram to find out if he had made any headway toward capturing the man. Schram wired back as follows: "Have arrested five of the murderers and expect to land the sixth tomorrow."

The season is drawing near when every man is called upon to spend more than he can afford to spend for wedding presents. Each year we are flooded with inquiries as to suitable wedding presents and this season we intend to forestall all such inquiries by publishing in advance a list of suitable wedding presents that should be each and every one. This list gets away from the old stereotyped present such as the gold mantle clock or the cut glass pickle boat and offers something original and unique. It will be noted that the following gifts are all useful as well as ornamental and those who follow our hint by selecting any one of them will make no mistake.

One dozen mustard plasters.
One hairbrush.
One bushel false hair.
War Trumpet.
Pair of crutches.
One high sifter.
One barrel of lawn fertilizer.
One lawnmower.
One hundred feet of garden hose.
Electric bell.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

TIRES.

By Howard L. Rann.

TIRES are round, elastic imitations of rubber which are attached to automobiles for the purpose of absorbing the bumps, thank-you-ma'ams and other death-dealing jolts. While they are doing this, they also find time to absorb a recheche collection of ten-penny nails, tin-plated tacks and broken beer bottles which no body else cares to pick up.

Tires are made of an expensive grade of glucose and a little bit of hope, and are guaranteed to run 5,000 miles without exploding under the tread of some glib-tongued fellow who is riding in the rear seat. When a man buys an automobile the manufacturer gives him four new tires which soon lose both their ambition and complexion and become infested with uneasy airholes known as punctures.

A puncture can easily be repaired in half a day so that it will not punct again for several miles. Tires are filled with air which is continually trying to escape into the outer world. This air is pumped into the tire by hand by an apoplectic metal who does not care what the tire retains its figure or not and who crowds it so full of stray air until the owner is nine miles from a garage.

Some tires are fastened to a popular device called the denouement rim. This is one of the greatest inventions of the age. It is called denouement because a new tire can be put on in ten minutes by a man from the agency who won't take an automobile owner who has had four years' experience in a round house over two hours and a half. All that is necessary is to raise the hind feet of the automobile out of twelve inches of sand with an instrument called a jack, remove several bolts which were driven in with a sledge, cut off the old tire with a pen knife, take off the rim with a cold chisel, fit on the new one with an axe, put back the bolts that didn't get lost in the sand, and then extract what is left of the jack. This is an exciting pastime on a hot day, and puts everybody in a happy mood.

A blowout is a large, perpendicular hole in a tire caused by the air being out in one spot with a loud report. The only way to repair a blowout is to convert the tire into chewing gum.

MUSICAL EVENING AT SCHOOL FOR BLIND

Delightful Program Rendered Before an Appreciative Audience Last Night.

The gymnasium at the State School for the Blind was filled with an appreciative audience last evening and the program rendered was thoroughly enjoyed. Every number evidenced the result of careful training and reflected credit on the instructors, who for the past nine months have been closely associated with the work.

The year just closed was one of the best in the history of the school, and the wholesome, contented atmosphere which prevails here indicates that Superintendent Hooper and his wife have made the state school more than a state institution.
The graduating class this year was from the industrial department, and is state wide. The class is a hand, which makes them skillful, combined with the knowledge acquired, will find a place for them among the ranks of busy producers.
Superintendent Hooper is a firm believer in a practical education, and he realizes that the blind need more than any other class. If permitted to carry out his policy and plan, he will do it. The blind boys and girls of the state will make a long stride towards independence.
The scholars are scattered over the state today for the summer vacation, and will return to school in September for another year's work. Next week the triennial session of the alumni will be held at the school.

Beloit college students also compose the party, and a very successful season is looked for.

PIERS ON BRIDGE NEARLY FINISHED

River Gang Rebuilding, the Railroad Bridge Will Complete Work Within Two Weeks.

Rapid progress has been made by the Clearing-White Construction company in the rebuilding of the railroad bridge above the dam and it is expected that the work on the piers will be finished within the next two weeks.

With the completion of the three piers the river gang will be able to cross where the company has a contract to build a large bridge of nineteen piers. The system that the construction company employs to build the bridge is to send the bridge gang out and complete the work of erecting the piers, including the laying of the sheeting, puddle-damming and the building and filling of the cement mounds.

The workmen on finding it impossible to dredge the proper amount of material from the bed of the river here for the puddle damming, brought the sand from the gravel pits on cars and dumped it into the bed of the river, making the work of removing the water from the inclosure very rapid.

The river gang have been working Sundays and over-time, so as to give the bridge a chance to lay the big double girders which are to span the piers. This section of workmen will be employed for a period of about two months finishing one side of the bridge and transferring the tracks on to the other side of the structure. After this is completed the river gang will again be brought back and set to work tearing down the span work of the old part of the bridge and going on to the rebuilding of the other half of the piers.

Because of the heavy traffic which the two local roads send over this bridge, it is impossible to construct the bridge at one time and both roads have been closed, say the men over the north side while the bridge men have been building one-half of the bridge. When this is finished, the trucks will be moved and the other half of the bridge built up. The river gang having completed the cement work within a few feet of the old span work. In this way no delay of traffic will result.

Because of the five piers of solid cement extending six feet into the bed of the river and the big ninety foot double girders, weighing thirty tons apiece, which are to form the foundation for the road-bed, the bridge when completed, will be the strongest in this part of the country and will be able to stand the heaviest kind of traffic.

RENNIE HERDENDORF IS HELD FOR TRIAL ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Information Will Be Filed Against Assailant of John Anderson on Monday, June 16.

Rennie Herdendorf, charged with the robbery of about eighteen dollars money and a gold watch worth $10 from John Anderson, on the night of Friday, June 6, was held for trial in the municipal court on Monday, June 16, as the result of an examination conducted before Judge Elfield this morning in default of the $1000 bail demanded as a security for his appearance in court. He was committed to the county jail to await his trial. District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie conducted the examination and the defendant was represented by Attorney Frank Fisher. The complainant, Patrolman Sam Brown, Turney Walker were the only witnesses examined, no evidence being introduced for the defense.

The testimony of John Anderson was the first to be heard by the court. His face still plainly showed evidence of the beating he had received by the man who attacked and robbed him. He told the jury that he was in the saloon on West Milwaukee street, when he was attacked by the defendant. He had intended to go to Chicago then but a tailor with whom he had left clothing for pressing did not get down in time and he remained down town all afternoon. He was well into the evening, all this time in the company of Herdendorf. They had a number of drinks together but not enough to produce intoxication. Herdendorf asked him to step in to an alley. Herdendorf walked in first and he followed. It was pitch dark in there and they had hardly stepped inside before Herdendorf wheeled around and struck him in the neck, and knocked him down. Then he started to rifle his pockets. Anderson fought his assailant and said that he hit his thumb pretty severely with a mug which he was carrying. Herdendorf, he said, threatened to kill him if he continued to resist and disappeared with his watch and nearly twenty dollars in money. He was so blinded by blows that he received in the eyes that he could not see where the thief went, nor could he find his way. Someone heard his cry for help and turned him over to one of the police officers.

Patrolman Brown, the officer who placed Herdendorf under arrest at about 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning, testified that he rapped at the door of the latter's home, the old Holleran house on Fifth avenue, and on entering he saw Herdendorf in bed. There was mud on the knees of his clothes and one of his hands was skinned on the thumb and first two fingers. When asked where his hand was injured he said he was working in the Rotstein junk yard.

Turney Walker was sworn and testified that he examined Herdendorf's hands last evening, and the thumb of one appeared to have been bitten between the joints and near the knuckle.

The questions of the defendant's attorney were chiefly directed to learning how many drinks Anderson had taken, the place of the robbery, his movements during the afternoon and evening. Anderson could not state definitely, being a stranger in the city, where he was attacked, but said the alley was near Milwaukee street and that it was very muddy.

It is a human tendency to spend money before getting it. It is the trait of which set-backs are born. Wait a little before you spend. Build a savings account at the "Rock County Savings." You can buy more with cash in hand than you can with "prospects." And when the savings idea is working you will think twice before spending once. There's profit for you in getting the money first. WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

THE HABIT OF SAVING.

THEY say it takes more power to start an electric car than it does to run it quite a distance without stopping. Even so, it takes more energy to start a good habit than it does to keep it going a long time once you have acquired sufficient momentum along the right track. Especially I think is this true of the good habit of saving.

To the average person the saving habit is the hardest habit in the world to acquire. I suppose there are a few people who are born with a desire to save, but then there are some people who are born with a desire to spend, and the average person is somewhere in between. The average person has five toes and five fingers, and a far greater one, and spending as simple and natural a process as breathing.

Tell the average person that saving is a fascinating habit once you have acquired it, and he will look at you with a doubtful as he feels.

And yet that is so. If you can once get a bank account fairly started there really is a great fascination about it.

While you are getting under way, saving will come hard. Only a stern sense of duty, a fear for the future, or an ardent desire to possess something which necessitates saving, will make it possible. But by and by you will come to enjoy seeing that bank account grow just as one likes to see plants and trees and all living things grow. And then some day there will come a time when the joy of making your bank account reach some coveted milestone will be greater than the joy of gratifying some desire such as the wish for a new gown, or an automobile.

Then you will know that you have really learned to save. After that it will come comparatively easy, perhaps too easy, although I think there is not much danger of that with the average person.

Of all the innovations in our schools it seems to me that none deserves so much credit as the school banking system, by which our children are taught about financial matters, given real bank books, and so successfully persuaded to save that the children of this country have banked thousands of dollars this past year.

Just as the muscles of the body grow stronger by use so the muscles of your character strengthen by exercise, and of no set of moral muscles is this any more true than of those of self-denial and of deferred enjoyment. The trouble is to get in the habit of exercising them. Now a bank book is the best exerciser possible. If you haven't already why not get one for yourself and your children just as soon as possible?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How can I wash a red sweater with white trimmings without getting the white red? (2) I have been going with a young man eight months and hear from him once in every three weeks. Do you think he loves me? (3) Is a girl of nineteen too young to go with a man of thirty-three? (4) What can a girl at the age of thirty do to win a boy's love? (5) What will be a nice way to make up a tan velle goods; also what trimmings? (6) What can I do with my hair to make it fluffy and thick? (7) How soon can a widow marry after the death of her husband? (8) How shall a girl head her letters to a boy to whom she is engaged? (9) How should a boy head his letters? (10) How shall a girl make a boy understand that she wants to go to a party? (11) If he doesn't take the hint do you think he loves her? (12) I am a light complexion girl, blue eyes and light hair. Do you consider me good looking? (13) What colors go best with a dark complexion? (14) Are wide hats worn this summer? (15) Is a girl with a pug nose considered good looking? Is there any remedy for it? (16) Do you think a girl cares for me any more when she has written to me for eight months? (17) I am a boy in a lively business. Do you think it a good trade?

ROSE, JOE, ANXIOUS
(1) Red is almost certain to run if water is used. About the only way I can recommend is to clean the sweater with gasoline. Fill a covered tin can full of gasoline, put in the sweater and cover the can. Put an incense burner in the can. Let it stand overnight. (2) Do this outdoors in a shady spot and pour boiling water into the tin. Leave garment soak 20 or 30 minutes, times thoroughly. If there are any very soiled spots on the sweater, rub them with soap before putting into the gasoline. Squeeze out (don't ring) and hang in the open air, on a coat hanger, until gasoline has evaporated. (3) I'm afraid he's not very desperately in love, my dear girl. But he may improve with time. (4) It depends upon the man and the girl. If she is a steady sort, or if he is lively, and they like the same things, it would be all right. (5) I hope she doesn't want to marry a boy. She is old enough to win a man's love. It isn't right to take a husband out of the cradle. It's easy to win a love like that, but hard to keep it. All she needs to do is to flatter him and make him think he's a real man. (6) Tan velle would make up beautifully. (7) I suggest a wig. Have a wide shaped wig of the color of the hair, with wide turn-over collar and cuffs. The skirt can be draped up at the side and held with buttons to match cuffs and girdle with small buttons of the same kind. Fill in the front of the waist with a lace vest. (8) Rub vaseline into the scalp and brush it well every two weeks. (9) At the end of a year. (10) She ought to know without telling. How about "Dearest John," or "My Very Dear Boy"? (11) "My Sweetheart," and "My Darling" would be too strong. Could it? (12) Just tell him she'd like to go. If he doesn't "bite" he doesn't want to or perhaps can't afford it. (13) How can I tell without seeing you, little friend. I would have said "swish" if you were quite pretty. (14) It depends on the rest of her face and expression. I know of no remedy. (15) She probably cares for me any more when she has written to me for eight months? (16) I am a boy in a lively business. Do you think it a good trade?

Graham Bread—One cupful of flour, two cupfuls of buttermilk, two cupfuls of Graham flour, one round teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Sift the flour into a basin; add the Graham flour, the sugar and the salt. Stir the soda in the buttermilk until it foams, then pour among the dry ingredients. Beat well, pour into a buttered pan about seven inches by nine inches, or smaller. Bake for one hour in a moderate oven.

The KITCHEN CABINET

CAREFUL with fire—is good advice. Careful with words—is ten times doubly so. Thoughts unexpressed may fall back dead. But God himself can't kill them when they're said.

SOME GOOD EATINGS.

Here are a few good things worth saying and trying when opportunity permits:

Date Surprise.—Mix a tablespoonful of butter with a cup of sugar put into a saucepan and add a quart of milk, bring to the boiling point and thicken with four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch which has been mixed with a little cold milk; cook eight minutes, stirring constantly, flavor with almond extract and add a cup of pitted and chopped dates and a few drops of vanilla. Pour into sherbet glasses and set away to cool. Serve decorated with pitted dates.

Pork Sausage in Batter.—Brown pork sausage, then place in a baking pan and cover with Yorkshire pudding batter, made as follows: Mix a half teaspoonful of salt, a cup of flour, two well beaten eggs and a cup of milk; pour over the sausage and bake. Serve from the baking dish.

Grilled Breast of Lamb.—Put the breast, well wiped, into boiling water and simmer for two hours; add an onion and a stalk of celery. When the meat is tender the bones may be removed and the meat tied up into a roll; brown in a little butter and serve with lima beans or green peas.

Dainty Salad.—Arrange slices of pineapple with the centers removed on lettuce, lay a ball of cheese in each center and serve with French dressing.

Chicken Salad.—Take four cups of finely cut chicken, two cups of minced celery, one green pepper minced, one tablespoonful of onion juice and sufficient dressing as needed.

Fried Pineapple.—This is delicious with broiled steak. Sprinkle a bit of sugar on the slices and brown them in butter. Serve as a garnish for steak.

Green apples and onions cooked together with a little bacon fat or salt pork are also delicious; served with beefsteak.

Frock of two shades of rose faile. The blouse which, with the peplum, is a darker shade than the skirt, is edged with bands of black satin beneath lace frilling. The frilling forms a Medial collar at the back. The girdle, turnback cuffs and sash are of black satin. Elbow length, kimono sleeves have undercuffs of rose silk and narrow lace frills. The very short peplum is gathered to blouse. The skirt is caught up at right side in a fold releasing in drapery about the foot.

Guard Health in Summer Menus. Make a firm resolution that no illness shall come this summer to you or yours through poor feeding. Good out-of-door life, which always spells "hunger," will mean planning very differently for meals than it means catering to indoor "appetites." How long it has taken us to learn this, and how slowly, but surely, it is coming and that is going to mean women's freedom; the whole world seems to be moving for her just at the present time. Much seems to be in an upheaval, but out of all this chaos of discussion of what she should do, or not do, or be, will come a healthier and happier nation.

Sunday Breakfast.
Strawberries and Cream
Butter Wheat Popovers
Steamed or Soft Boiled Eggs
Coffee with Hot Milk
Cocoa
The Sunday morning breakfast for the entire summer is to be planned without much work. When fruit becomes more plentiful it is well to have an entire breakfast of fruit occasionally. A great number leave off drinking coffee entirely during the hot weather, but it can be used with breakfast if made a little stronger than usual and diluted with hot milk, which causes less disturbance than cream.

Make the popovers first, as they require at least 45 minutes for baking. Make the cocoa. Set the table with sunless linen and a few garden flowers on the breakfast table. The straw berries should be washed Saturday when ready to put into the refrigerator, but not failed until ready to use. Use berry sugar and rich cream with them as desired.

Steam the eggs as previously directed under "Eggs" by standing off the stove covered in boiling water. Cocoa or milk may be used for the children.

Popovers.
Material—Butter wheat flour, two-thirds cup; pastry flour, one-third cup; milk, one cup; salt, one fourth teaspoon; eggs, one; melted butter, one-half teaspoon.

Directions—Beat the egg without separating, until well mixed and light. Add the milk to the egg. Into another bowl put the flour, add the salt and pour into it beating all the while milk and flour gradually together. Strain this batter through a sieve. Have well-heated and buttered iron gem or popover pans. Fill two-thirds full of this batter and bake in a moderate oven for forty to fifty minutes or until perfectly light, as they will surely fall if not perfectly done. It is very important to heat the popover pans, as the desired lightness must be secured by steady heat from the bottom at the very beginning of baking.

Sunday Luncheon.
Salmon Sandwiches
Chocolate Pie
Fruit Punch
Have both white and brown bread sandwiches, chopping the salmon fine and season with mayonnaise dressing and shredded lettuce between.

Chocolate Cream Pie.
Material—Chocolate, two squares, or cocoa, one-half cup; fine white bread crumbs, one-half cup; milk, two cups; sugar, one-half cup; salt, one-fourth teaspoonful; vanilla, one teaspoonful; pastry, eggs, three.

Directions—Melt the chocolate, or cocoa in the double boiler. Mix the sugar, bread crumbs, beaten egg yolks, salt and milk. Add to the chocolate and cook till thick, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and add flavoring. Pour this into a pie crust, shell which has been baked over the bottom of a perforated pie pan. Cover with a meringue made from the whites of two eggs beaten until stiff, then adding two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one tablespoonful of lemon juice, or mix a pinch of cinnamon with some sugar which is sprinkled over the top and set in a moderate oven to brown. Whipped cream may be used in place of meringue.

Sunday Night Supper.
Roasted Stuffed Leg of Veal (cold)
Jelly
Creamed Potatoes
Ripe Olives
Asparagus
Shredded Pineapple
Cake
Cafe Noir

The leg of veal is stuffed and roasted on Saturday. In fact, part of it may be used for Saturday night dinner and the remainder for Sunday night supper. Boil plenty of potatoes also Saturday night so as to have enough left over to cream for this supper. The asparagus is also carefully cooked and set away in the refrigerator with the washed and dried lettuce for the salad. Peel and shred or grate the pineapple and sprinkle with a little berry sugar—cake should also be made and baked. Bake any good cake in a long pan, cool and cut in squares. It may be readily be seen there is very little work on Sunday for this Sunday night supper, and that is as it should be.

FOR THE NECK AND SHOULDERS.

A Free Prescription That Instantly Obliterates Blemishes, Tan, Freckles and the Marks Left by High Collars.

The Dutch neck and the evening gown too often expose the discoloration and blemishes of high collars or the effects of tan and freckles. It is easy to overcome these conditions and make the neck beautiful and white and soft and smooth—to overcome, in other words, every blemish and make the low neck as attractive as it is comfortable. This preparation can also be used on the shoulders and face and it is marvelously effective to beautify the hands and arms.

If you want to try it, go to your druggist and get a one-ounce bottle of Cuticura Compound. Pour the entire contents into a two-ounce bottle, and quarter ounce witch hazel, then fill with water. Prepare this at your own home. One application will delight you. It is deliciously cool and soothing and it is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off.

If you put it on one hand only, or on one side of the neck and note the difference, you will see the wonderful change it makes instantly. The results are immediate and continued use of this preparation will keep your skin as soft and smooth as a child's.

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

Wright's proposal had been totally unexpected by Gloria. Up to the time he had begun to plead with her to go away with him, she had maintained fair control of herself. His generous offer, as she termed it, had pierced her armor of reserve and laid bare her warm, quivering heart.

"Pride, Gloria, pride," the man whispered. "It's pride that's keeping you from being true to yourself and true to me."

"Don't speak to me, Joe," she sobbed. "I can't stand it."

In his heart he yearned with all the ardor of youth and love to gather her in his arms and comfort her. Yet he knew her well enough to know that it could not be. Her humiliation had rendered impregnable the barrier she had erected between them. There was naught he could do but suffer in silence while she wept.

CHAPTER XXIII

Gloria hated herself for the paroxysm of emotion to which she had given way in the presence of the man whose love she had rejected. There was no interpretation to be put upon it save that her nerves were overwrought, yet she did not know how he would construe her tears. She did not wish him to think her weak. Suddenly the girl remembered that tears were a woman's weapon. The thought so enraged her that in her anger at being so much a mere woman she forgot to weep. She had in her the spirit of her father. Drying her eyes hastily, she turned to say good-by.

Wright saw her turn and held out her hand. Could she have changed her mind? His heart prompted this thought, but one glance at her face told him she was still determined to go her own way alone.

"Good-by," she said.

"Is it to be good-by, Gloria?"

"That and nothing more."

The man looked at her in a dazed manner. Now that the time of parting had come she had far more self-possession than he. He groped about in his mind for something to say, but words were inadequate. There is no telling how his feelings might have betrayed him had there not come a knock at the door to interrupt their parting.

At the sound Gloria exclaimed with a start. "Who's that?"

Wright walked to the door, saw who asked for entrance, and opened it wide for Patty to enter.

"Mr. Joe, there's a man says he must see you at once."

"Did you tell him I was busy, and to wait?"

"Oh, yes, just like you told me, but he said to tell you he was David Kerr!"

"My father!" Gloria took a step forward. Her exclamation told what a surprise this news was to her.

"What does this mean?" he asked.

"You know as much as I. I've told you I've not seen my father since that day in Judge Gilbert's office. He's been busy with politics, but, more than that, I've well, I've preferred staying with Mrs. Hayes."

Patty, tired of listening to a conversation she could not understand, and remembering the visitor, asked: "What shall I tell him?"

"Wait a minute, Patty," Wright motioned the child to the door. Then he turned to Gloria. "You can leave by this side entrance. No one will be the wiser for this visit. The minute the door closes behind you, Patty, and I will have forgotten that you called. But I will not have forgotten your kindness and consideration. Before you leave I want you to know that I can't value too highly the motive that prompted your call. To the end I'll treasure it as a memory hallo from the parting from the only woman I—Good-by."

He felt he could not complete what he wished to say without a show of emotion to which it would not do to give way. The only thing he could do was to hold out his hand and say, "Good-by."

Gloria put both her hands behind her back, and shook her head.

"No, I refuse to go."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean just what I say. I intend to stay here and meet my father and hear what he has to say to you."

Wright gazed at her intently, but she did not quiver under his scrutiny. "It shall be as you say," he assented. "Go, Patty, tell him to come in. After Patty closed the door there was an awkward silence which he broke by saying, 'I must say that this meeting is ill-advised.'"

She sighed and shook her head. "Oh, ill-advised or not, my mind is made up. Things cannot go on as they are. If henceforth I am to direct my own affairs, why shouldn't I begin now?"

"But how explain your being here?"

"If he can't believe what I have to say he isn't worth the slight esteem with which I still regard him."

"Here he comes."

"Let him see you first." She retreated to a corner of the room where her father's first glance as he entered would not discover her. Patty opened the door and David Kerr walked into the room.

The two men looked at each other without any attempt at a feigned cordiality.

"Mr. Wright," began the boss, and at mention of his name the newspaper man bowed slightly in recognition of the greeting. "I met Dr. Hayes this afternoon. He spoke of you, and what he told me has led me to break a custom of years; I've come to see you. In this town it's always been the other way. He spoke with all his accustomed force, and seemed even more confident than usual as he added, 'The old way will continue, sir, but owing to what you might call the relationship that once—'

"Sir!" thundered Wright in astonishment. Covertly he looked at Gloria, to find his own amazement mirrored on her face.

"Bound us, I thought I'd come to see you," the boss continued, not heeding Wright's exclamation.

"One minute, sir," Wright was not willing for him to proceed without his knowing that his daughter was in the room with them. "Before you speak further you must know that we're not alone in this room."

"We're not?" He looked about him, and at the sound of a familiar voice turned sharply to confront his daughter.

"No, father, I'm here." She advanced coolly to the center of the room, and waited for him to speak.

"Gloria! My daughter here!" He managed to gasp. Wright, determined not to have his hand forced, waited to see what card the daughter would play.

"Wait a minute, please," she remarked quietly, the most self-possessed of the three. "Are you so blind you can't see you find me here because I wish it so? My visit to Mr. Wright surprised him just as much as did yours. When you were announced, I told him I would stay."

"So that's it, is it?" her father raged. "Have you turned against me, too? Why didn't I raise you like you ought to 'a been!" It was with an evident effort that he was restraining himself even as much as he was.

"Would to heaven you had!" Gloria exclaimed in a low tone. "You gave me only the roses of life, and now the thorns—all that life offers me—seem sharper than I can bear."

Wright had thought his heart had been so wrung that nothing could hurt him worse, but this confession of unhappiness to her father made his own unhappiness greater than he had believed it could be.

"Gloria, this is distressingly painful. Please don't," he begged. Then he turned to her father. "Why have you come here?"

"Why is she here?"

"Father," now she spoke timidly, a maiden telling of a dear, dead love, "for a little while Mr. Wright and I were engaged—to be married. I don't think you know what that means to a girl, what it meant to me. But you do know how it ended. Yet we're still such good friends that I felt I could come this afternoon to—"

As she spoke, a great light began to dawn upon her father. At the words "good friends" he saw his whole plan successful, although worked out along lines a trifle different than what had been in his mind when he had determined to call upon the editor. Your successful general is a great opportunist, and David Kerr was quick to seize this opportunity.

"Good friends!" he echoed, interrupting her. "Then I'm glad I found you here. Just listen to me a minute, I ain't got much to say, Mr. Wright."

but we understand each other pretty well. Now then—you gave us a pretty hard bump, an' I admire you fer it. Of course, you're new to Belmont an' it looks all right from yer pint o' view. His tone was now suave and conciliatory. "But you're too good a man to be blockin' the wheels o' progress in this town."

"Things were running pretty smooth when I came here, weren't they?" Wright was willing to admit that much.

"Exactly, exactly," Kerr took a step forward and glanced at Gloria before he went on. "Now then, what do you say to this? You switch over an' join me. If it's too strong fer you to go, I'll out out that Maple avenue railway line, an' we'll go at it some other way."

Gloria looked at her father in astonishment. Wright did not interrupt him, wishing to hear all that he had to say. "This campaign's taught me I'm growin' old. Some day somebody's got to take my place. There ain't a man in the party with your sense. I need you, an'—what's more—you'll profit by bein' with me."

"Mr. Kerr, it won't take me many words to give you your answer."

Reading disapproval in the remark, David Kerr craftily replied with his kindest manner. "Take yer time, take yer time. The more you think it over, the more you'll like it. Besides, I'm thinkin' of Gloria. You two talk it over. She's—"

"Father!" The girl was perfectly horrified and her sense of the fitness of things outraged by having her name dragged into the discussion. "Would you dare connect my name with such an affair?"

To the coarse nature all things are coarse, and her father seemed surprised that she should resent the manner in which he had connected her with the offer. "An' why not?" he asked. "I've been thinkin' the matter over, an' you an' him would make a pretty good team."

"Oh!" Gloria's disgust was unexpressed. Mere rage was useless to express her feelings. She gave her father one withering look and turned away, walking up and down the room like a caged animal.

Kerr turned to Wright, since Gloria appeared to have no inclination to listen. "So I argues, why not fix it up between us?" Then he spoke to his daughter in explanation. "Not knowin' you'd be here. But it's just as well. Now, Mr. Wright, what I say is this: This town wants somebody to run it. Belmont can't get along without somebody to keep the wheels greased. I'll put the paper on its feet fer you, an' gradually—as gradually as you like—you kin come over to my way of thinkin'. Then what'd be more natural than fer you to take over the runnin' o' things—especially as you'd be my son-in-law?"

Wright was about to make reply, but Gloria was too quick for him. Stamping her foot with rage, she paused before her father defiantly.

"Oh, this is more than I can bear! Am I a dog, a horse, a pig, that I can be traded in a dirty deal with not so much as 'by your leave'! I'll not stand it for another instant. One humiliation after another has been my lot, but this is the last. I'm through with you. What has passed has taught you nothing; you're the bargaining, trading, scheming politician still, so low that you'd make your own daughter, your own flesh and blood, the bait to lure a good man from his purpose. But you can't do it," she cried, a note of triumph creeping into her denunciation; "he's not your kind. And you believe that I'd submit to such a thing? What can you think of me? You put me on a plane with those vile creatures who pay you for protection."

"Gloria, please stop!" Wright pleaded. Her father could only look at her in wonder as she poured out the pent-up passion of her inmost soul.

DINNER STORIES

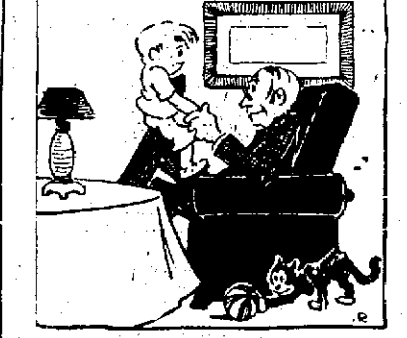

A little boy of four years, noticing for the first time a lock of gray hair on his father's head, asked:

"Papa, why are some of your hairs gray?"

Thinking to drive home a moral lesson, the father answered:

"Eh, has a new gray hair every time his little boy is naughty."

The child seemed lost in thought, but after a pause said, gravely:

"Then grandpa must have had awful naughty boys."

"Do you mean to say," said the friend of the family, "that you are much happier since you and your wife broke up housekeeping and started to live in a hotel?"

"Indeed we are—we like it immensely."

"You speak from your own point of view. But are you sure that your wife does not long already for home life? How do you get along in this hotel? Where are you living, where the conditions are so ideal?"

"She is at the Smith house and I am at the Hotel Jones."

Some time ago a gentleman ninety years of age called at an insurance office with the intention of taking out a policy on his life. After ascertaining the man's age, the clerk remarked:

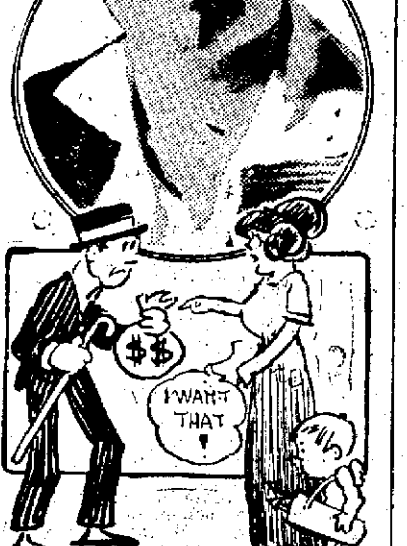

"But, my dear man, we can't insure you at your age." The elderly applicant thought a moment, then put this question to the clerk:

"Don't more people die before the age of ninety than after?"

RESINOL CURED AWFUL ITCHING IN ONE NIGHT

Had Suffered Six or Seven Months.

New York, April 26, 1913.—The skin on my hand got red and rough. It itched so that sometimes I could not sleep all night. I was suffering very much. I used salve and ointment, but they did not seem to help me. This went on for six or seven months. Then I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. I used them one night. In the morning, to my surprise, my hand was all well and the trouble has never returned. This is the absolute truth.—(Signed) Miss Celia Kleinman, 61 Columbia St.

Nothing we can say of Resinol equals what others, such as Miss Kleinman, say of it. It does its work quickly, easily and at little cost. If you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, sunburn, insect-bites, dandruff, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores, or piles, it will cost you nothing to try Resinol Ointment and Soap. Just send to Dept. 45-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each. Sold by all druggists.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

We take all the sass the cheap nations can spring, we are so intensely afraid that if we resented an insult or fling, it might have effect on our trade. They knock off our hat and they tread on our feet, and though we are weary and sore, we turn with a smile that is saintly and sweet, and ask them:

ABJECT AMERICA to kick us some more. We hand out red tape to the pestilent chaps who kick till our coat tails are frayed, for if we should frown on insulters, perhaps it would put a crimp in our trade. It challenged the world, once, in dominant tones, this country now greasy and fat! Alas for the days of Decatur and Jones, when we scrapped at the drop of the hat! But Commerce is sacred; we might lose a yen if we should get mad for a while, so come, friends, and kick us, and kick us again, and gaze on our heavenly smile. Time was when the flag of this land of the free, which now is the emblem of Treason, protected its people, on land or on sea, however remotely they strayed; but gone is its prestige; it's drooping and sick, it waves over shop-keeping men, who never hit back when they're slugged with a brick, so come, friends, and swat us again.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 11, 1873.—Joseph Lull died at the residence of Mr. Burdick, corner of Pleasant and Jackson street, this morning. While riding on Jackson street last night the forward axle of the carriage suddenly broke letting the front part of the buggy down on the ground and the frightened horse began kicking to free itself from the buggy. The horse kicked Mr. Lull in the head and both legs—one of which was badly fractured. The injured man was taken to the Burdick residence and developed alarming symptoms late last evening and the greatest skill of the local surgeons failed to stem the progress of the fatal injury. Deceased was a widower, about forty years of age and leaves a son eleven years old. Charles, the eldest son of Charles T. Wilcox of this city, was drowned near the Rock River in 1873. M. Thompson, about three o'clock this afternoon. Several others were only saved from a similar fate by the strenuous efforts of their companions. The remains had not been recovered at the hour of going to press. The residence of Hon. Alex Graham in the first ward of this city, was last evening the scene of a pleasurable episode for the lives of the parties immediately interested, which we hope may never occur to either of them again. George Cook of Oshkosh, formerly of this city, and Miss Mary, adopted daughter of Mr. Graham, were married. May they live in happiness until the trumpet of the angel shall summon them across the river. A numerous assembly tendered its friendly congratulations. Rev. Whitcomb pronounced the nuptial rites. Money has been raised to defray the expenses of an attractive and pleasant celebration in this city the Fourth of July. All that remains for the people to do, is to assemble at the council room and decide what program shall be given.
